Dear colleagues,

Linkcommunity partners were engaged in the previous week in the last transnational training of the project. Due to the pandemic we were forced to organize it as virtual training; however, we had a great participation and a big and successful effort of each partner in dealing with the proposed activities.

It was focused on methodologies and practices for the development of in-community initiatives that we can adopt to strengthen the role of the local community and all the actors in the educating community. We have explored 5 methodologies, including presentation of effective good practices and exercises to plan initiatives according to the challenges of each local context where we work and live:

- ♣ Community of practice
- ♣ Mutual Aid Groups
- ♣ Home education and Street Education
- ♣ Time banking
- ♣ Community cooperatives

Useful information about them will be available soon in the project website www.linkcommunity.eu in the RESOURCES section.

During the third staff training we had the opportunity to meet virtually the coordinators of a Community Cooperative - Legàmi di comunità - that works in the city of Brindisi, in Apulia region in Italy, offering educating services to the local community, with the aim to regenerate urban spaces creating, at the same time, in community relations

A great opportunity to be inspired for the local activities that we will implement soon!
